Scott's primary goal is to turn his client's non-paying accounts into an active revenue stream.

With nearly 20 years of experience as a collections attorney, Scott takes pride in his ability to serve every type of creditor – from the largest financial institutions in the country, down to small business, sole proprietors, or individual business owners. Whether the matter involves large sums of unpaid B2B bills or missed payments on equipment loaned, Scott seeks to resolve each case quickly and effectively, and in the best interests of his client.

Scott resides in Easton, PA with his wife and two children. He is an avid Philadelphia sports fan and Villanova basketball fan.
