Ashley's clients appreciate her ability to make the recovery process simple and painless.

When banks, credit unions, or local businesses are in a difficult spot and need to collect receivables owed, they count on Ashley. Her goal throughout the entire recovery process is to achieve an open line of communication with her clients and provide them with timely updates – so they never need to guess where their file stands. Ashley also lends a hand to local landlords and leasing companies when it comes to residential evictions.

While obtaining her juris doctorate at the University of Toledo, Ashley served as research assistant to one of her favorite professors. Today, she helps law students prepare for the state bar exam through student essay grading and private tutoring.

Ashley grew up in North Canton, Ohio and originally joined the firm at its downtown Cleveland office, but recently relocated to Columbus. Ashley loves spending time outside with her husband and her two dogs, Jack and Winnie. When she's not spending time outside, some of Ashley's favorite hobbies are swimming, indoor cycling, and true crime podcasts.
