Hannah's approachability, thoroughness and passion for the law make her a valued team member - and an exceptional client advocate

With a strong education and solid work experience behind her, Hannah joined the firm's Consumer Collections Group in the summer of 2021. In this role, she helps small to large-size financial institutions recover money and/or assets owed from defaulted loans, credit payments, vehicle leases and more. A firm believer in clear, consistent communication, Hannah aims to set realistic expectations – for both clients and debtors – in her pursuit of the best possible recovery outcomes.

Prior to Weltman, Hannah worked as a law clerk in a suburban Cleveland Prosecutor's Office from 2018-2020. During this time, she drafted responses to discovery requests, compiled witness and evidence lists, and conducted legal research. She also served as an extern for a judge in Cuyahoga County.

As a native Clevelander, Hannah is proud to have graduated from Cleveland State University's Cleveland-Marshall College of Law. Outside of work, Hannah enjoys paddle boarding, swimming and reading – especially now that she's done with law school! She also loves spending time with her husband and her 120 lb. rescue dog, Fang.
