Sofia Tamimi brings a unique blend of empathy, determination, and practical expertise to her work as an attorney in the collections industry.

With eight years of professional experience across mediation, psychology, and wellness, she approaches every case with a deep understanding of human behavior. A Certified Mediator through Mediators Without Borders, Certified Applied Positive Psychology Practitioner, and a 200-hour Certified Hatha Yoga and Meditation Instructor, Sofia's diverse background informs her approach to resolving disputes with compassion and respect. She leverages these skills to guide clients—primarily credit card and auto insurance companies—toward resolutions that balance business objectives with thoughtful human engagement.

Sofia's path to the legal profession was inspired by her studies in forensic psychology at Drexel University, where the intersection of law and psychology sparked her career ambitions. Known by colleagues and clients alike as empathetic, determined, and helpful, Sofia strives to set herself apart by ensuring that empathy is not just an afterthought, but a driving force in her legal strategy. Her guiding principle, influenced by Brene Brown's insights on human behavior, is that everyone is doing the best they can with the resources available to them—an outlook that shapes her work with both clients and opposing parties.

Outside of her legal practice, Sofia's interests reflect her well-rounded and community-focused nature. Raised in Toms River, New Jersey, she remains an avid beachgoer, yoga teacher, and crocheter. She enjoys city life alongside her beloved pitbull mix, Shiva, and actively serves on the Board of the Educational Empowerment Project, Inc., a nonprofit dedicated to helping youth secure meaningful employment after high school. Whether in the courtroom or the community, Sofia brings a sense of balance, curiosity, and service to everything she does.
