Mike has successfully litigated products liability and insurance coverage disputes throughout the country.

Mike is the managing partner of the firm's Philadelphia office. He practices in commercial and consumer collections, with particular emphasis in auto, property and casualty, and product liability subrogation matters. He also focuses a great deal of his practice on compliance issues related to the lending, debt collection, and repossession industries.

Mike is a frequent speaker on compliance issues related to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) and has written numerous articles related to subrogation issues, including the recovery of first-party benefits in Pennsylvania and future legislative actions related to driverless vehicles of the future.
