When his clients need help navigating the intricacies of the legal system, Jason is first in line to help.

Jason's practice lends itself to a variety of recovery matters, including subrogation, litigation, defense, collateral recovery, and real estate default. His matters may include the recovery of insurance claims, transportation related accounts, or education loan receivables.

Working directly with CFOs, CPAs, general counsel, small business owners, insurance adjusters, and transportation and logistics professionals, Jason understands the stress they feel to keep up with the fast pace of the industry. He gives every matter his full attention, and vows to do everything in his power to represent his client's interests to the fullest extent of the law. It is important that he earns his client's complete satisfaction, so he aims to be creative, efficient, and effective in every case he represents.

Jason is a member of the National Association of Subrogation Professionals (NASP), where he was conferred the Certified Subrogation Recovery Professional (CSRFP)® designation. In addition to meeting stringent academic and experience requirements, those possessing the designation are bound by the Code of Professional Ethics of Certified Subrogation Recovery Professionals.
